MATTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

Board of Trade Holds Business Meeting—Report on Main Street Change—Green Silk Mill to Start Soon—Retail Merchants to Start Independent Organization.

The May meeting of the board of trade was held on Tuesday evening at Buckingham Memorial when a number of matters of public interest were discussed and at the close a report was furnished by the entertainment committee, of which A. S. Spalding is chairman. The Wauregan house doing the catering.

Following the report of Secretary Tibbits, the public improvements committee reported that the board had decided on the matter of changing the sidewalk on the south side of Main street at the Rockwell building at the junction of Main and Market streets. Mr. Hall showed a plan made by Chandler & Palmer, showing that by continuing the walk straight ahead for about ten feet into the street, which is not used at that point, the bad grade at that point could be avoided. The report was made at the time the present grade changed but slightly. Owing to the grade there, however, it would be unwise to put in a crosswalk there. The change could be made for $300 and it would be a public improvement. The sidewalk could be replaced by a new one. He thought the signing of a petition by the merchants would have much influence.

President Cary told of the petition being sent to the common council, which had been signed by a number of business men.

Z. R. Robbins thought the real trouble was the grade in the two streets, and thought a permanent improvement should be made at that point. He suggested that Main street be cut down about a foot, which would take out the double slope at the foot of the street, which causes the trouble. It would be one of the most humane acts the city could do.

Upon his motion the committee would be made to see if it was a change, and a sum not to exceed $25 was allowed the committee.

Central Vermont Road.

A communication from the Central Vermont road, asking that the 11 A. M. train be moved up to Main street, was read by the president and referred to the transportation committee.

William B. Birge was elected a member of the board, after which the committee working to start a business men's organization here was discussed. E. E. Hux and Charles W. Pearson spoke of the efforts of the retail merchants to start an organization here for the purpose of benefiting themselves in the way of credits and collections.

A. A. Tracy spoke of the value of such an organization for merchants, and said that a board of trade covered a much larger field and spoke of the success of the New London Board of Trade, which was set apart from the board in 1904 and expired in 1908.

Green Silk Mill.

President Cary called attention to the fact that last month the loss of an industry had been reported and there was no available factory for it, but now there is one available, the A. N. Green silk plant, which is now being prepared for operation. The plant was being remodeled by C. W. Comstock and the industrial building of F. W. Browning will be ready.

Mr. Green said that all of the credits had been settled with except two, and those were to be settled soon after which a substantial concern, reported to be the Brainard & Armstrong company of New London, had been secured to operate the plant. He hoped the doors will be opened next week.

Shetucket Street.

A map showing how Shetucket street could be widened to 100 feet was shown and explained by President Cary. It called for the straightening of the street, the widening of the street from the Thames Loan and Trust company building to Shannon's corner, which would widen it about ten feet, and the widening of the street from the corner to the intersection of the street with the railroad, which would widen it about ten feet.

Mr. Murphy called attention to the fact that every now and then there is trouble over building line grades, and that it would be better to have a board of trade, which would establish these and then all this trouble would be obviated and the widening of streets would not come so often.

Invitations Accepted.

An invitation from Capt. J. A. Hagerberg of the Third company for the members of the board to attend their annual meeting at the Norwich range May 13, was accepted.

The board also received an invitation to participate in the anniversary of the city and town and upon the suggestion of E. A. Tracy a committee of nine will be selected by the president to assist the procession committee, particularly to the regard to the carrying of floats showing the industries of the city and town.

AUTO RAN AWAY WITH DR. HIGGINS' SONS.

Struck Bank in Fairmont Street and Capsized, Harold Being Pinned Under Car.

Two small sons of Dr. Harry E. Higgins of No. 31 Fairmont street, Harold, aged 12, and Paul, aged 4, climbed into the doctor's runabout on Tuesday afternoon, while it was standing in front of his house. The car, playing around the starting mechanism, got the car started down the street at that point, with the younger son, Paul, in the driver's seat. The car started, and ran to tell his father, who was resting on a couch in his house. By the time the doctor got outdoors the machine had run about fifty feet, running into the gutter and tipping over.

Little Harold clung to the steering wheel, and was found under the machine, partially dazed from a blow on the head. The doctor immediately stated Tuesday evening that he was not seriously injured.

Dr. Higgins is at a loss to explain how the small boys could have started the auto, as he had the brake on and the wheel turned into the gutter.

The machine had a tire broken, the fender bent and a tire ripped.

CIVIL SUPERIOR COURT.

One Case Is Continued, but Suit of Bridget Kelly vs. D. S. Gilmour, Adm., is on Trial.

The civil superior court for the May special term opened here with Judge Case in attendance on Tuesday morning. Owing to illness of the defendant, the case of Fred Tibbits vs. C. F. Gladding, executor of Dr. Geer's estate, was continued.

The case of Bridget Kelly vs. D. S. Gilmour, administrator of the estate of Timothy Kelly, was begun. This is a suit to recover half of the bank account of Miss Kelly's mother. It was claimed that on November 21, 1893, Bridget O'Kelly, mother of the plaintiff and of the late Timothy Kelly, gave the latter by trustee her bank book and order for the sum of $784.50. He was trustee for Bridget Kelly and Daniel Kelly, but never turned over the amount, it claimed, but kept it for himself. The defense sets up a general denial.

There were a number of witnesses heard during the day and at 4:20 o'clock court was adjourned for the day, and the counsel and interested parties were about to attend Mr. Kelly's books to pick out the charges against Bridget O'Kelly, who gave over the book and order when she was called by the doctor, but never turned over the amount, it claimed, but kept it for himself. The defense sets up a general denial.

SECURING MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETENCES.

Dennis L. O'Brien Was Soliciting Funds for Holy Carriers Without Authority—Secured Quite a Sum.

On Tuesday Dennis L. O'Brien secured a typewritten appeal directed to all whom it concerned, stating that he was collecting money for the Holy Carriers, and that he was in need of assistance of the Holy Carriers who are out on a strike. It bore the seal of the union and was signed, falsely, about the city to individuals and business houses, with the result that he received $4.75.

It was reported to the police that he was not authorized by the union to circulate a paper and he was arrested. Policemen Henderson and Maloney. He is charged with securing money under false pretenses. The subscription paper was found on him.
